Washington Dental Service Foundation's Prenatal Oral Health Initiative

To improve the oral health of pregnant women so that they will be in the best position to prevent cavities during their baby's early years.

We want women to know that dental care and treatment during pregnancy is important and safe and optimal oral health during pregnancy is paramount in reducing health risks to both mother and baby. By getting cavities treated during pregnancy, a mother is less likely to pass cavity-causing bacteria to her baby after birth. This greatly reduces the chance that her baby will get cavities early in life.

Share WDSF's "Cavity Free for Baby and Me" material with the pregnant women you see and serve.

Washington Dental Service Foundation is a non-profit, philanthropic organization funded by Delta Dental of Washington. We are committed to lasting approaches to improving the oral and overall health, of people in Washington. With an emphasis on prevention, WDS Foundation works closely with partners to develop and implement innovative programs and public policies. WDS Foundation analyzes oral health data and trends, shares best practices, provides grant funding, and works across the state to advocate for improved oral health. Educating the public and policymakers about the importance of oral health and how to prevent oral disease is a priority.
